VOL. XVII. NO. 44

WRANGELL, ALASKA, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1918

PRICE TEN CENTS

TO-DAY'S NEWS

LONDON—Allies have agreed to terms of an armistice according to information received here today.

WASHINGTON—Foch and American Allied Commanders have agreed upon course tantamount to Germany's unconditional surrender if they are accepted. From an authoritative source it was learned today that these terms are essentially as follows: Evacuation of Alsace-Lorraine, Russian Poland, cessation of munition making to be insured by committees of Allied officials who are to be installed in all factories, surrender of submarine fleet and the occupation of all German battleships by Allied Naval officials.

PARIS—Hungary intends to apply direct to Entente Governments to learn on what terms they will grant an armistice and peace to Hungary. It is reported in political circles in Budapest. According to a Zurich dispatch to the Journal, Austria-Hungary is already reconciled to the idea of unconditional capitulation. A Vienna dispatch to the Frankfort Zeitung Breuse says that Vienna is threatened with famine. The authorities are powerless and laws are no longer enforced.

WASHINGTON—With two million nine hundred thousand soldiers now in France according to Baker's announcement, the United States today is rallying energies anew towards winning the war.

WITH ALLIED ARMIES IN FRANCE—The British army fought throughout a brilliant moonlight night in the vicinity of Valenciennes. By morning they had barged six thousand Germans, many guns, and made steady gains. The hard pressed Germans opened the canal gates and flooded vast stretches in an effort to delay the British.

WASHINGTON—972 casualties; 777 dead; 1:5 wounded severely.

WASHINGTON—President's reply reached Berlin this morning.

LONDON—Gigantic peace demonstrations during which police fired upon crowds with machine guns killing several women have just taken place in Mannheim, Germany, according to a dispatch from Hague to the Times today.

NEW ORLEANS—T. J. Gorman, former Alaska canneryman, died in this city today of diabetes.

LONDON—House of Commons adopted a resolution favoring women sitting in Parliament. Balfour in a speech declared that German South African colonies should not be returned.

The Steamship Alaska is reported on the rocks between Vancouver and Prince Rupert. It is understood that the Jefferson turned back to go to her assistance.

WASHINGTON—The President has informed the German government that he has transmitted its correspondence seeking armistice to the Allies with the suggestion that if those governments are disposed to effect peace upon the terms and principles indicated, their military advisors and the military advisors of the United States be asked to submit the necessary terms for such armistice. Should such terms of armistice be suggested their acceptance by Germany will afford the best concrete evidence of her unequivocal acceptance of the terms and principles of peace. The President's reply reiterates that the nations of the world do not and cannot trust the word of those who hitherto have been the masters of the German policy, and gives warning that if the United States must deal with the military masters and monarchial autocrats of Germany now or later it must demand not peace negotiations, but surrender.

Birthday Surprise Party

The Worden home was the scene Saturday afternoon of a delightful birthday surprise in honor of Mrs. J. E. Worden. The entire affair was planned by her daughter, Miss Liberty, and was a great success. Mrs. Worden had been invited to spend the afternoon with a friend whose cooperation had been secured and when the guests had arrived a note was despatched to her urging her return as a caller had arrived whose stay was to be for a limited time only. When Mrs. Worden hastily entered her home a little later she found a large number of callers present instead of one.

Cards were played for a time, the prize winners being Mrs. E. B. Mitchell and Mrs. George Elton Barnes. In a contest of nations which followed, Mrs. M. O. Johnson and Mrs. Chas. Benjamin won the prizes. The tally cards which were appropriately decorated with heads of Red Cross nurses and uniformed men of the service were the work of Miss Liberty Worden as were also the place cards at the daintily appointed tables in the dining room where refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon. About twenty-five ladies were present.

Miss Glen Matheson celebrated her eighth birthday anniversary last Saturday afternoon. Games were played and a fish pond proved a delightful feature. Dainty refreshments were served. The following little girls enjoyed the event: Erma Grant, Etolin Coulter, Wilhelmina Cunningham, Virginia and Irene Tozier, Dorothy and Marjorie Johnson, Katherine, Glen and Betty Matheson.

Ole Johnson proved a delightful host Sunday evening at a duck dinner given in his bungalow on Church street to the following guests: Mrs. Oscar Carlson, Misses Ann O'Connor, Maie Armstrong, June Elliott, Marguerite Uhler and Messrs. Carl Carlson, Oscar Wickstrom, and A. Jakobitz. The dinner was the happy result of a successful duck hunt the day before.

SCHOOL NOTES

Last Friday being Alaska Day the school was given a half holiday. The regular recitations were held until 10:30. Rev. Father Deeny of Portland has been in Wrangell during the past week conducting a mission. He is a forceful speaker.

Weston Anderson and Ingwald Nore were absent from the primary room during the past week on account of sickness.

The big event next week will be the Moose social on Halloween night. Benefit of soldiers.

WICKERSHAM SPEAKS IN WRANGELL

Ed Russell and Grover Winn Also Address the Audience

The Redmen's hall was crowded to its fullest capacity Tuesday night for the Republican rally.

W. H. Warren presided as chairman.

Ed C. Russell, publisher of the Juneau Dispatch, and candidate for Territorial Senator was the first speaker introduced. After talking along patriotic lines for a few minutes Mr. Russell read some correspondence from William Britt, who while acting as vice consul for Norway, advertised his readiness to lend assistance to Norwegian citizens who had taken their first papers, but who did not wish to be drafted. Mr. Russell called particular attention to the following from a letter to Jack Sutherland, secretary of the Alaska Labor Union at Anchorage, in which Mr. Britt says:

"There is no law whereby a Norwegian citizen can be drafted into the United States army. A Norwegian who has taken out his first papers or intention papers is still a Norwegian citizen.Intention papers are nothing but a declaration of intention which intention may become changed like intention in any other matter. Numerous Norwegians in the States have been drafted, mostly because they have not made the proper kind of protest, i. e., persons who had taken out their first papers."

Grover C. Winn was the next speaker introduced. Mr. Winn dealt with the subject of public education, and outlined what the Republican party proposed to do so far as the educational feature of the platform was concerned. He declared himself in favor of vocational schools in each community as far as possible. He stood for greater efficiency in the schools, and stated that with the money the schools now receive from the Territory that would be possible.

Following Mr. Winn's talk the chairman introduced Hon. James Wickersham, the principal speaker for the evening.

Judge Wickersham began his address with a most masterly tribute to Woodrow Wilson, the President of the United States, the Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy, and the leader of the American people. He declared the President to be a big man who had proved himself thoroughly competent—a man who is acting on the belief that freedom was intended for the old world as well as the new—freedom of the human race.

Judge Wickersham said that the President had declared politics adjourned and that he is acting on it. Tatt and Hughes and Wilcox, the Republican national committeemen, have been called by the President to his assistance, serving faithfully and well without pay. He declared that Republicans are supporting Wilson without a quibble—that there is no longer any North or South—that we are a united people and all Americans without party so far as the war is concerned, and loyal to the President to the last man, woman and child. (Applause).

The speaker contrasted the patriotism of Congressman Julius Kahn of San Francisco with that of such men as Senator Vardemann of Mississippi who opposed the President in the prosecution of his war program. He declared that the most of the obstacles the President has encountered have been in his own party.

Judge Wickersham devoted a few minutes to reviewing the delegateship contest. He declared that he was elected to Congress by the people instead of Judge Jennings, and that when the contest came up for hearing in Washington the committee unanimously decided the case in his favor—unanimously decided that Judge Jennings was wrong.

Judge Wickersham next took up the shipping bill, calling particular attention to the fact that Alaska was the only part of the United States where foreign vessels are not permitted to engage in coastwise traffic as a war measure, made necessary on account of the scarcity of American ships. He emphasized Alaska's great need at this time for better shipping facilities and called attention to the exorbitant freight rates to Alaska. He read from a tariff showing that the freight rates by water from New York to Galveston are something like a third of the cost per ton from Seattle to Wrangell. He charged that when the shipping bill was about to come up in Congress Mr. Sulzer obtained a leave of absence and went to California, and that during his absence Mr. Bunch of the Alaska Steamship company got the joker into the shipping bill which deprived Alaska of the relief that she so sorely needed. He told of the expensive lobby of the Alaska Steamship company in Washington declaring that that company by reason of its prominence and power and commanding financial influence was able to control legislation.

Judge Wickersham referred to the Sulzer bill providing for a full territorial form of government, and charged that it had a joker in it which provided for a re-opening of the prohibition question.

The speaker talked at some length on the Sulzer fishing bill which he said was substantially the same as the Alexander bill. He stated that four great corporations own the controlling influence in the fishing business of Alaska, and that these corporations now have 600 notices and maps in Washington ready to file applications for trap sites on a moment's notice and that if the Sulzer Fisheries Bill should pass it would be less than a day until these applications would be filed and the fish-trap sites of Alaska pass from the people of Alaska for a period of ten years. He also called attention to the fact that the bill makes no provision for the territory receiving any tax from the holders of trap sites. It provides only that a tax of one cent on every salmon caught in a trap shall be paid into the United States treasury. He said some of the results of the bill would be to cut out the troller—to cut out the gas-boat man, and would necessarily mean a general exodus of everybody who depends on the fishing industry for a living.

At the close of the meeting many people came forward to shake hands with the speakers.

About an hour after the meeting the party left on a gas-boat for Petersburg where they held a rally last night. Hon. P. C. McCormack accompanied them to Petersburg.

Ludwig Berg, Sr., this week received a picture of his son John Berg, showing the young man in the military uniform of the navy. Johnnie is now at the training camp at Seattle and his fine appearance would indicate that he is getting into good condition for fighting.

A letter received from one of our boys at Camp Dodge, Iowa, states that Lloyd Myers is in the hospital with Spanish influenza.

ARCTIC BROTHERHOOD OPENS THE WINTER SOCIAL SEASON

The local Arctic Brotherhood has always contributed much to the social life of Wrangell, its series of parties given every year during the long, dreary winter months having made many friends for the order. Realizing the especial need this year of as much cheer as possible to dispel the gloom that pervades so much of the universe and the importance of a certain amount of play to offset the many activities that beset a nation during war times, in order that we may remain sane and efficient, the A. B. ushered in the coming season with a most enjoyable party last night. As usual it began with cards, progressive whist being played. Miss O'Connor and F. B. Leonard won handsome prizes for highest scores and Mrs. Hugo Schmolck and C. M. Coulter were awarded the consolation prizes. In an interval during the game J. G. Thomas recited a very clever and appropriate little poem concerning the various trumps in cards.

A program followed. After the singing of "America" by all, F. B. Leonard gave a four minute address which included the reading of a testimonial of the worth of the British Navy and a resolution of endorsement of what it has accomplished in the present war. Mr. Baronovich sang "Mother o' Mine," Mrs. W. H. Warren, "A Red, Red Rose" and Miss Froese, "I Hear You Calling Me." Every number was excellent and received a hearty encore. Mr. Warren was the accompanist.

At the conclusion of the program a simple but substantial supper was served in the banquet hall, following which several hours were spent in dancing. The North Star orchestra furnished very fine music and floor manager Dalgity did not permit a dull moment.

The attendance was somewhat smaller than usual owing to an epidemic of colds and the fact that so many of the young men of the community are serving their country. Conspicuously placed in the lodge room, the Honor Roll of the Arctic Brotherhood bears testimony to the patriotism of the members. It contains six names. Among them is that of H. B. Eastman, concerning whose safety considerable apprehension is felt. Mr. Eastman has corresponded with friends faithfully since his entrance into the British service but has not been heard from during the last three months and many of his friends fear that he has made the supreme sacrifice.

The party last night was a great success and those who were in attendance hope it will not be the last. The A. B. committee responsible for the arrangements consisted of Arctic Chief Thomas Dalgity, W. H. Warren and L. M. Churchill.

The Arctic Brotherhood, which is the most unique, as well as one of the most beneficial institutions in the great golden northland had its birth in a spirit of jollity among a crowd of returning argonauts who had been over the trails and knew their hardships, on board one of the steamers bound for Skagway, February 26, 1899.

The name "Arctic Brotherhood" was decided upon as the most fitting synonym for such an extreme Northern organization. A number of "chechacos" were initiated by a number of "sour-doughs," with improvised but none the less strenuous ceremonies for the occasion. Upon arrival at Skagway a feast was held in order to properly celebrate the event which had taken place on shipboard a few days before. And though it had not been seriously thought of when the first "chechacos" were taken over the "trail" on the steamer, it now dawned upon a few of the more practical minds of those who had taken part in the ceremony that such an order was exactly what was needed in this new country. A council was accordingly held, a ritual, by-laws and constitution were adopted and the Mother Camp of the order duly organized at Skagway. It is to be noted as a fact em-

THREE WRANGELL SOLDIER BOYS GO SOUTH

Clarence Lewis, George Sylvester and Wm. Taylor, Jr., who were drafted into the army a few weeks ago were aboard the Humboldt Monday evening southbound. They were in uniform and were a trio of fine looking fellows. Many of their friends were at the dock to greet them. When the boys left Ft. Seward they were bound for Camp Lewis, but while on the boat they received another order to report to an officer in Seattle. Therefore they had no idea where they would go after reaching Seattle.

Miss Grace Wigg is now in San Francisco at the Department of Pharmacy of the University of California.

The appointment of R. G. Wayland as a lieutenant in the Engineers is a very deserving honor to a competent man. The Government will get a fine soldier and the Treadwell Company will lose a first class official. Given the opportunity, Mr. Wayland will rise rapidly in rank in the army, as he is a hard worker with a lot of natural ability.—Douglas Island News.

phasizing the high standard of character of the men who organized the order that the beautiful ritual in use by the Arctic Brotherhood has undergone few, if any essential changes since the first ritual was adopted almost 20 years ago.

In the original ritual was found. "If a brother falls, gently lift him up; if he falls, imbue him with fortitude," and it has remained ever since as a noble precept for any man to follow. The dog and the horse, these faithful animals that were so all-essential to man's well-being on the rough trails of the north in the early days, were not forgotten by these men who framed the first ritual. for a firm admonition was given and a strong promise exacted not to abuse or ill-treat these dumb brutes, upon whom would fall the heaviest burden of successfully and quickly getting over the trail, and it is safe to say that many a rough hand that was about to descend with a whip or stick upon the back of a dog or horse, through some fancied grievance, was stayed by the first lessons from the pages of the first ritual, as written by these men. And the same lessons are in that ritual today, and no man can say they are not lessons well worthy to be considered.

In the Fourth Liberty Loan Wrangell went over the top the second time by $3,350.

TYPICALS SPIRIT OF FRANCE

Brave Thirteen-Year-Old Girl, With Two Small Brothers, Doing All the Work on Farm.

When the work in your war garden seems tedious and you straighten your aching back and look longingly toward the inviting shade of the trees or toward the arm chair on the awning-covered porch; when you mutter to yourself that it will not matter much whether the weeds do choke the beet patch—it may help you to finish your task if you call to mind a story told in "My War Diary" by Mrs. Mary King Waddington.

In a village near ours, says the author, a girl of thirteen is running the farm. At the beginning of the war it was a thriving farm with a man and his wife, six sons and one daughter. Then the blow fell, and all the men in France were mobilized; the father and his two eldest boys went off at once—four hours after the decree of mobilization was received in the village. The farmer had no time to put his house in order, but left the farm in the hands of his wife and the two big boys, aged fifteen and sixteen. The man and his two eldest sons are now dead, the two next are in the army, and the poor mother, a wreck physically and mentally, cries all day. The girl and the two little boys do the whole work of the farm. The youngest, who is only ten years old, cannot accomplish much, but he does manage to watch the cows and to carry cans of milk or baskets of butter.

I see the girl sometimes; she is perfectly well, never complains and never asks for anything—except occasionally for a warm petticoat, or a hood to keep her head and neck warm and dry when she is working in the fields. There are hundreds of girls doing that work all over France.—Youth's Companion.

AS HAVE OTHER HUN THINGS

Man Complains That His German-Made Clock Has Completely Gone to the Bad.

My old alarm clock has gone to smash. That may not be a news item nor it may not interest you, but up at our home the fact that the alarm clock wouldn't go any more was an event of interest. It was ticking away on the shelf at a quarter to 11 the night of July 17. I took it up to wind it. One twist, and—rattleclank, hiss boom ah. Something went all to pieces in the works.

More twists, shaking, putting the clock to ear and final determination that it was done for. I thought to look it over before depositing it in the ash can. On the back was scratched the month and day of the purchase in 1912. I was looking on the face for the last time and studying it closely. Then down at the bottom I saw in small letters: "Made in Germany." There it had been ticking away on the shelf year after year, sounding its alarm regularly, and yet never before had I noticed that detested inscription. Probably if I had it would have gone into the ash can long before.

Just like a lot of other "Made in Germany" things that we didn't know were around until we found them out. But the old German clock is busted, the works have gone to smash, it has sounded its last alarm, and as I meditated on it I thought how true of everything else "Made in Germany," including the juggernaut war machine, 40 years in the building, with which the kaiser was to ride untrammelled over all the rest of the world. The works "is busted."—E. E. K., in Syracuse Post-Standard.

Mustard Gas Invented Here.

The report that an American inventor laid before an agent of the bureau of mines 15 months ago a formula for mustard gas, which the Germans are now supposed to be using, is to be taken up by the American Inventors' association. The allegation, brought to the attention of the association at its meeting the other day was to the effect that Benjamin P. Brooks, chief chemist of the Commercial Research company of Flushing, L. I., gave a formula to the government bureau and heard nothing more from it. A few months ago it was found Germany had hit upon the gas, according to F. J. Hemen, president of the association.—Washington Star.

Fewer Japanese Silks.

Just as we had learned to value Japanese silks and crepes and so on, especially as substitutes in these times of shortage of so many materials, we hear that certain ships engaged in the Eastern trade, and that brought us these serviceable and charming materials, have been loaned to the imperial government, and that has created a scarcity in transportation facilities. So georgettes, crepe de chine, and so on, are added to the list of growing scarcities and advancing prices. Added to this, little silk is coming from the French and Italian markets.

Her Record Still Still.

A certain family has a colored servant who, while very attentive to her duties, has never been known to give anybody a civil answer. Purely as an experiment, the lady of the house brought her a new calico dress, and gave it to her, saying: "I am glad to have the pleasure, Muttidy, of giving you this dress." "Yer mout hab had dat pleasure long ago ef yer had any regard fo' my feelings," was the gracious reply.—Chicago News.

RED CROSS MATTERS

The Red Cross War Council authorizes this, the fourth installment of the War Council's report to the American people concerning the use already made and now being made of the Red Cross War Fund:

"American Red Cross expenditures in France for work done among the civilian population since the war began, together with appropriations for the Supply, Transportation, Women's Hospital Service and other bureaus, will amount to more than $70,000,000.

"Expenditures in France up to July 1, 1918, totaled $36,613,682.73 of which $21,160,632.66 was apportioned for relief work among refugees, reclaiming devastated areas, the fight against tuberculosis, operating expenses and other expenses that have to do with the civilian population. The demands for the next six months for the same purposes are $34,582,827.57.

"The two largest items of the past expenditures were for relief work and reconstruction of devastated villages and the relief of refugees from the devastated areas. The total for these purposes is $5,557,605.75. The third largest item was for a campaign against tuberculosis and totaled $2,147,327.

"For the care of children in France up to July 1, $1,149,129.70 was expended. For the current six months the appropriation is $2,775,877.19. For the work of caring for refugees the sum of $6,212,280.70 has been set aside and the fund for the rehabilitation of villages in devastated areas totals $1,094,912.28.

LETTER FROM WESTON DALGITY

Mare Island,
October 1, 1918.

Dear Mr. Pritchett:

In the first place I will state that I am writing to you as a friend and that this letter is not for publication.

I received seven copies of the Sentinel in the last mail, and I went forthwith to my tent and arranged them in order of date and consumed the news for the past two months.

This life is the real thing and the U. S. Marine Corps the finest branch of the service. The island and the climate make things ideal for training. We practically live out-of-doors as we rarely lower the sides of our tents. And the chow is exceptionally good. We have it in quantity and quality. Just gaze on Sunday's dinner menu: Soup, roast chicken, mashed potatoes, fresh tomatoes, ice cream and cake, coffee.

The life seems rather strenuous at the outset but we soon get used to it. We begin the day by hitting the decks at 6:30 and taking a brisk double time and setting up exercises before chow. From then on we are kept moving until 4:30 when we are on our own. That means that we then have a chance to do our own washing, ironing, etc., which is almost a daily occurrence. The Marines have to live up to their rep as the dudes of the service. We have a great many shows, both movies and vaudeville, in the large auditorium here as well as athletic contests, so we have lots of chances for amusement. Then, too, we get week-end liberty when we go to San Francisco or Oakland and take in the cities. Though we look forward with great eagerness to these pilgrimages we always get weary of it and sigh with relief as we crawl into our bunks in our little old tents.

Do you know what a Marine is? Gee, you are a well-informed person if you do, because the general public has a very vague idea of the U. S. M. C. The Marines don't wear sailor suits. They wear a forest green uniform much on the same order as the Army uniform. They also wear the campaign hat and on the hat is the insignia of the globe, anchor and eagle. That is the distinguishing emblem of the corps and is a symbol that the Marines are ready to do duty on land, sea or air.

The fellows here are a fine, loyal bunch of Americans who ask nothing more than a chance to fight. The training in the corps is very intensive and therefore is of shorter duration than in other branches so we hope to see action that much sooner.

I wish that you had consulted me before making that eventful trip to Farm Island. Didn't you know that Mr. Gingsburg never feels just right unless he perches up on a good old Stikine sand bar. He is just like Capt. Knig in that respect.

With best regards, I am
Respectfully yours,
Weston Dalgity.

A charivari party of children at Cordova recently met with a hot reception from a bridegroom who evidently was not an Alaskan. When the youngsters appeared with their noise-making instruments the irate groom greeted them with cuffs, kicks and slaps, chasing them into the tall uncut. It has been the custom for years in Alaskan towns to charivari newly married couples who generally respond with a liberal treat to the children, but one man has been found who loves his money better than the goodwill of the kiddies.

MINERS' UNION ENDORSES

Sulzer, Alaska,
October 14, 1918.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted by the Sulzer Miners' Union No. 152, I. U. of M. M. & S. W. at a regular meeting held at the Jumbo mine, Prince of Wales Island, Alaska, October 14, 1918.

Whereas, Hon. Chas. A. Sulzer, candidate for re-election to the office of Delegate to Congress from Alaska, has for many years and at all times demonstrated, by speech, attitude and action, his unswerving support of those measures most strongly advocated by organized labor, including the eight hour day, fair wages and the square deal in all things, and

Whereas, During his incumbency of the office of Delegate from Alaska, he has succeeded in winning that confidence of the leaders of the Administration in Washington, which we consider so vital to the successful administration of the office of Delegate, and has worked in entire harmony with the Department heads and others who have control over the affairs of Alaska at the National Capitol, and

Whereas, He has, by his courteous and devoted attention to all communications sent him by the people of Alaska, no matter of what station, and by his unceasing labor for the passage through Congress of those laws which are designed to really promote the welfare of the miners, the farmers and the laboring man of Alaska, has shown his true interest in all Alaskans, individually as well as collectively, and

Whereas, He has been enthusiastically and wholeheartedly patriotic in his attitude towards every activity of the Government in the prosecution of the war.

Now therefore, be it resolved, by the Sulzer Miners' Union No. 152 I. U. of M. M. & S. W. that we do extend, to Mr. Sulzer our hearty support in his campaign for re-election and do urge all those who are true friends of labor in Alaska to rally to his support, to the end that Alaska may again be represented in Congress by a clean, patriotic, capable and devoted citizen of the Territory.

The Sulzer Miners' Union was regularly organized as a branch of the Western Federation of Miners July 5, 1907 at Ketchikan, Alaska.

Thos. Butler, President.
H. R. Raffelson,
Secretary.

Don't forget the Moose dance Hallow'een night for the benefit of soldiers.

Ernest Campbell has made his eighth round trip across the Atlantic on the transport steamer Northern Pacific. Ernest says that on one of the return voyages they brought back a soldier whom they had taken over on one of the earlier trips. In that short time this soldier had been to the front and was being sent home with one leg gone.

In the last issue of the Sentinel it was stated that the proceeds of the dance given by Mr. Sam Cunningham following the show on the evening of Liberty Day were turned over to the Red Cross. The amount received for by Donald Sinclair, the treasurer, was $19.75 for which Mr. Cunningham deserves and has the thanks of the Red Cross and the community.

ARUNDELL ADDRESSES NATIVES

A meeting was called at the government school building Monday evening by the teacher for the purpose of giving the Natives an opportunity to discuss their land problems with Mr. C. R. Arundell, trustee for the Wrangell townsite.

The school building was crowded. Mr. William Lewis acted as interpreter out of courtesy to the half dozen old people in the audience.

Mr. Arundell, who is Chief of the Field Division of the U. S. General Land office, was thoroughly familiar with the question that was before the meeting. He spoke clearly and to the point, bringing his hearers to a better understanding of the land laws, and incidentally incurring their deepest gratitude and thanks.

Mr. Arundell explained that the first step necessary for a Native to secure patent to land was to make application for citizenship. The Alaska legislature in 1915 passed a law in accordance with an Act of Congress giving the Natives the right to make application for citizenship. The applicant must swear that he has for all time renounced all tribal customs and relationship.

A majority of the teachers in the government school must first pass on the applicant's fitness. Then five white citizens of the United States who have been permanent residents of Alaska for more than one year must certify that they have been personally acquainted with the life and habits of the applicant for more than one year, and that in their opinion he has abandoned all tribal customs and relationship and is duly qualified to exercise the rights, privileges and obligations of citizenship.

The application then passes to the clerk of the district court who issues a notice of such application which must be posted in the post office for sixty days. Hearing may then be had before the district judge.

After a Native acquires citizenship he has the right to ask for a survey of his land after which a patent to the land will be issued to him.

Natives not becoming citizens may still retain their possessory rights.

surely creditable to the Natives, showing clearly their intelligent interest and knowledge in the affairs of the day.

After the meeting the following men asked for application blanks for citizenship: Donald E. Austin, John Kassunk, Charles Jones, George Bell, Peter John, Henry Willard, Charles Sheavte, Paddy Thomas.

James Bradley, Eddie Berkeley, Walter Shadesty, Charles Borch and Thomas Ukass made application for citizenship last summer.

It was decided to form night classes for work in civil government and history, organization of which will be effected next week.

The Natives generally are eager for improvement and advancement and are working hard toward that end.

ALASKA DAY CELEBRATED BY NATIVES

St. Philip's Gymnasium was crowded last Friday evening by native residents who had gathered there at the invitation of the Government school for the purpose of celebrating Alaska Day.

A program of patriotic songs both national and popular was given. The singing was led by a chorus composed of Mrs. James Bradley and the Misses Matilda Jones, Elizabeth Jones and Flossie Starr.

Mrs. J. W. Pritchett, the teacher, spoke mainly on the questions of citizenship and registration.

William Lewis spoke eloquently for the Liberty Loan, using the Thlinget language out of deference to the old people present.

He drew vivid comparisons between the treatment accorded the natives by the Russians, who regarded them as slaves and by the United States who regarded them as free people and who established schools that they might be freed from the shackles of ignorance and superstitions; had established hospitals and medical service that their bodies might be free from pain and sickness.

He explained briefly and clearly the advantages to be derived from buying Liberty Bonds and appealed to their patriotism to put in every dollar they could, instead of hoarding their money according to the old custom.

Mr. Lewis was applauded at length at the close of his speech. Tom Tamaree gave an impromptu speech to the children which was both witty and wise and was greatly enjoyed by every one.

Mr. Geo. Blake spoke briefly on the importance of school attendance and the responsibility of the parents toward seeing that their children not only attended school regularly but that they reached school on time.

A delicious lunch was served after the program during which time an orchestra composed of John Jackson, Charley Sheavte and James Grant played a number of beautiful selections.

Following the lunch a general social time was enjoyed until midnight, when the meeting adjourned until Thanksgiving, the school having planned a community dinner for that time.

C. R. Arundell, chief of the Field Division of the U. S. General Land Office, and trustee for the townsite of Wrangell, arrived in Wrangell Friday. Walter B. Heisel also connected with the land office, is in company with Mr. Arundell, and working with him. Mr. Arundell has established his office in the town hall, and began receiving applications for deeds for town lots. Every one is urged to be as prompt as possible in making application. Mr. Arundell and Mr. Heisel will lend every assistance possible to those seeking information as to the procedure to be followed. The land office notice published on the third page of this issue of the Sentinel should be read by everyone interested.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lawrence arrived this week from Petersburg. They will occupy the cottage on Church street recently vacated by A. H. Rohling. Mr. Lawrence is now connected with the local U. S. cable office.

Louis Shotridge, the Indian lawyer and ethnologist of Philadelphia, who has been in Alaska and British Columbia for the past two years, gathering information and specimens for the University of Pennsylvania, arrived on the Princes Sophia from Prince Rupert. Mr. Shotridge will take the next boat north to Haines, from which port he will go to his old home at Kluckwan for a visit to fore returning east.
